MARKET ADVOCATES WIN ANOTHER FIGHT

Purch se of Second Half Police Declare They of Site Will Be Definitely Settled at Next Meeting of Aldermen.

Rejection of the bond commission's ation that Harrington, Howard & Ash, of Kansas City, be pinted as consulting engineers for the Spring street viaduct, and anothrictory for supporters of a public market were features of the meeting city council Monday afternoon. The market resolution calling for purchase of the second half of the unicipal market site on Edgewood avenue for $42,000 also passed the rmanic board, the chairman break tie vote in its favor.

y the vote of 13 to 7, council expressed its disapproval of the Kansas City engineering firm. The principal attack was concentrated on its record made in supervising construction of the Royal Palm bridge at Palm Beach, Fla., two spans of which broke and fell into Lake Worth recently three days before it was to have been open-

Another ground of the fight was the igorous contention of members that "Atlanta brains are as competent to build the viaduct as imported brains."

Question Reopened.

Defeat of the appointment will reopen the question of selecting a consulting engineer for the viaduct, and the bond commission is expected to take this matter up at an early meet-

Councilman Claude Ashley, of the fourthward, led the attack against the Kansas City engineers. He fought confirmation of their appointment from the very first, declaring that the work should have been awarded to local engineers.

In the midst of his fight he learned that the Royal Paint bridge, over se construction the firm had supervision, had collapsed. The Engilication, dealt with the bridge's failure in severe terms. This data the ouncilman placed before the council, and asserted that in view of the firm's record on the Florida structure it was

Council referred the question, together with the data offered by Mr. Ashley, back to the bond commission. The commission, after hearing from John Lyle Harrington his explana tion of the viaduct's fall, in which he said their resident engineer was partly at fault, but placed the brunt of the blame on the contractor, passed a resolution adhering to its original recommendation that Harrington. Howard & Ashe be named to build the Spring street bridge.

After the market resolution had been adopted by the aldermanic board Alderman J. I. Carpenter served notice of a reconsideration at the next meeting of the board, thereby automatically holding up further action two weeks.

Success of the measure would make available $42,000, the balance of the purchase price of the site on Edgewood avenue proposed as the market

BY THE-ASSOCIATED PRESS. Rome, February 6-Cardinal Achille Ratti, archbishop of Milan, has been chosen supreme pontiff of the Roman Catholic church to succeed the late Benedict XV. His coronation as Pius XI. will take place February 12.

After the announcement of his elec ion the pope appeared on the outside balcony of St. Peter's and bestowed the benediction on the thousands who had waited patiently in the rain in St. Peter's square—the first time this has occurred since the breach between the tate and the church in 1870.

Charges that O. O. Nothing could have been more exsive of the spirit which characterived the annual meeting and dinner of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerc held in the Auditorium at 6:30 o'clock Monday evening, than the slogan "All Pull Together," which appeared on the program.

With approximately 1,200 person present, fulfilling the expectations of hose who were in charge, the dinner proved to be one of the greatest gatherings of its kind in the history of the city.

From beginning to end a spirit of enthusiasm was manifested, as evidenced by the speeches of officers of as well as heads of the various civic organizations of Atlanta, which fore cast a year of progress and co-opera-tion among the members of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

Prominent among the events of the evning was the introduction of Walter O. Foote, president of the chamber for 1922, who succeeds Lee Ashcraft, past president. Following Mr. Ashcraft's speech of retirement, Mr. Foote was presented to the gather ing and made his inaugural address.

DEMOCRATS MAINTAIN NEUTRAL VIEWPOINT

Minority Senators Are Waiting Fuller Information Before Deciding Attitude on World Pacts.

BY JOHN GLEISSNER, United News Staff Correspondent. Washington, February 6 .- Early atification of the naval limitation treaty by the senate is expected by oth democrats and republicans. This pact, among the several grow ng out of the arms conference, has aroused least criticism. Its accept ance, from present indications, will e almost unanimous. Even Senator Borah, of Idaho, leading irreconcilble, will vote for it. The four-power Pacific treaty, how ver, will meet greater difficulties, as will the treaties relating to China. Sentiment in the senate is not yet rystallized, particularly among the lemocrats, whose decisions will determine to a large degree the amoun of opposition the treaties will encounter. But it is clear that if a vote bould be taken today, all the treaties would be ratified by an overwhelming majority. Opposition may increase, of course, as treaty opponents point out defects and argus from the floor, but it would seem that not been like 15 votes would be recorded against even the least popular pact-the four-power Pacific treaty. Expect Reservation. This treaty probably will amended, and the amendment may come from the foreign relations committee itself. The amendment will be in the form of a reservation, debe construed as putting a moral obliforce when the interests of the signa-tory powers in the Pacific are that a moral obligation is implied in the clause which provides for a meeting of the four powers to determine what shall be done when the interests of any one of them are threatened. Senator Lodge, republican leader and one of the arms conference dele gates, is willing to accept t vation to quiet opposition. Sena Bornh will offer it. Support for it in the foreign relations committee can be expected from Senators Brandegee, of Connecticut; Johnson, of California; Moses, of New Hampshire, and McCormick, of Illinois, so the reservation probably will be attached in committee, to avoid long debate on the floor. Lodge does not believe the reservation is necessary, because he contends no obligation to use force exisits. He holds further that his speech, inter-preting the treaty and its scope, is

"It is fair to say that human ginning of a 'new and better epoch in human progress.

Stripped to the simplest fact, what is the spectacle which has inspired a new hope for the world? Gathered about this table nine great nations of the earth—not all, to be sure, but those most directly copcerned with the problems at hand—have met and have conferred on questions of great important and common concern, on problems menacing their peaceful relationship, on burdens threatening a common peril. In the revealing light of the public opinion of the world, without surrender of sovereignty, without surrender of sovereignty, without surrender of sovereignty, without impaired nationality or affronted national pride, a solution has been found in unanimity, and today's adjournment is marked by rejoicing in the things accomplished. If the world has hungered for new assurance, it may feast at the banquet which the conference has spread. All Must Agree.

I am sure the people of the United States are supremely gratified, and yet there is scant appreciation how mar-velously you have wrought. When Naval Limitations.

1. The naval limitation treaty, by which the United States, Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy agree to scrap or convert 68 capital ships and so limit future construction that, after a 10-year building holiday, their first line naval strength will remain at 525,000 tons, 525,000 tons, 315,000 tons, 175,000 tons, and 175,000 tons, respectively. The respective tonnage of airplane carriers is limited to 135,000 tons each for the United States and Great Britain, 81,000 tons for Japan, and 60,000 tons each for France and Italy. Individual capital ships are to be no larger than 35,000 tons and carry no guns in excess of 16 inches. Aircraft carriers are limited similarly to 27,000 tons and auxiliary craft to 10,000 tons and neither can carry a gun larger than sight inches. 10,000 tons and neither can carry a gun larger than eight inches. A fortiracinc, under which the United States agrees not to further fortify the Philippines and Guam, and Japan agrees to observe the same restriction in Formosa, the Bonins and the Pescadores.

2. The submarine and poison gas treaty, to which the same five powers are signatories. By its terms the powers agree as among themselves not to ers agree as among themselves not to use submarines "as commerce de-stroyers" in all cases to observe the rules of visit and search, and to regard as a pirate any submarine com-mander who violates existing law. As among themselves, they outlaw use of poison gas altogether.

Pacific Treaty. 3. The four-power Pacific treaty, by which the United States, Great Britwhich the United States, Great Brit-ain, Japan and France agree to re-spect one another's rights in relation to their insular possessions in the Ps-cific, and to meet in consultation whenever those rights are threatened. The Anglo-Japanese alliance is auto-matically abrogated when the new-treaty finally is ratified.

4. The general Far Eastern treaty between the United States, Great Brit between the United States, Great Britain, Japan, France, Italy, China, Belgium, Portugal and the Netherlands, binding each of them to respect China's integrity; the open door policy is to be applied in detail and every opportunity is to be given the Chinese people to develop a stable government. It is agreed that no treaty infringing these principles is to be concluded, that no contracts violating them are to be upheld, that discriminatory practices in the Chinese railways are to end, and that China's rights as a neutral are to be respected in future wars.

5. The Chinese tariff treaty, adhered to by the same nine nations, providing international machiners for an immediate revision of Chinese customs duties on a basis of 5 per cent, effective, and periodical revisions thereive, and periodical revisions thereafter, together with changes which will permit imposition of surtaxes.

Shantung Settlement. 6. The Shantung treaty, between Jupan and China, by which Shantung is restored to Chinese control.

By one of uncompleted treaties, one of the treaties, the negotiations, and how the decisions were reached," said greed to in substance during the con-6. The Shantung treaty, between Japan and China, by which Shantung is restored to Chinese control.

By one of uncompleted treaties ference Japan gives the United States the long sought cable and wireless privileges of the Island of Yap, and by the other the five principal pow-ers and the Netherlands allocate the former German-owned cables in the Pacific so that one goes to the Unit-ed States, one to Japan and one to the Netherlands. Briefly, the fourteen resolutions given conference approval embody the following decisions:

Fourteen Resolutions.

Agreement for withdrawal of foreign postoffices from China on January 1, 1923, provided China maintains an efficient postal service and continues in office the present foreign co-director general.

Establishment of an international ommission to investigate the Chinese judicial system with a view to abolition of extra territorial rights.

Authorization for a consultation between foreign diplomats and Chinese officials at Pekin with a view to withdrawal of foreign troops from China. Relinquishment to China of unauthorized foreign radio stations on Chinese soil, with the stipulation that all plants are to be used for official messages only except in emergency.

Agreement to exchange full information among the nations regarding all international commitments that affect China.

fect China.

Creation of a board of reference, to consider cases arising under the open door and railway provisions of the general Far Eastern treaty.

Convening of a special commission of the five powers to meet in the near auture and consider rules to govern the use of new agencies of warfare. By a second resolution on the same subject it is declared that the commission shall not "review or report upon" the submarine and poison gas rules laid down in the treaty on that subject.

rules laid down in the treaty on that subject.

Recommendation that "better protection" be given the Chinese Eastern railway. Another resolution attached but not subscribed to by China, declared the Chinese government must be held responsible for its obligations regarding the road. Expression of bope that the Chinese railways may be developed toward a unified system under Chinese control.

Request on the part of the other powers that China reduce her military forces.

crapping, before the treaty is ratified.

Supplementary agreement to the four-power Pacific treaty, excluding he islands of the Japanese homeland from the treaty provisions.

"Declarations."

Of the "declarations" made by the various delegations and formally spread on the records of the conference, chief interest attached to those relating to Siberia and the "twenty-one demand." Regarding Siberia, Japan disavowed any territorial designs in Russia, and pledged herself to withdraw her troops from Siberia as soon as stable conditions warrant, while the United States reasserted its hope that the withdrawal would not be long delayed. The famous "group" tribution of the arms conference negotiations to history.

By the major agreements of the conference, the great powers put a limit on their naval strength, in capital ships, abjure submarine warfare against commerce, and use of poison gas; give China a new bill of rights based on territorial integrity and the open door, and set up a new international concord to preserve peace in the Pacific. In addition, Great Britain declares her intention to restore Wei-Hai-Wei to China, and Japan gives back Shantung and promises to withdraw from Siberia as soon as conditions there are stabilized.

These are the six reaties which during the 12 weeks of negotiations here, have been brought to final completion:

The treaties will be sent to the senate as soon as the American delegation has reported to President Harding, according to Senator Lodge. This may not be before next week, since a large amount of material is to be collected and studied, and a lengthy report drawn. Lodge said he was confident that the treaties will be ratified without great delay, because of the tremendous popular pressure in of the tremendous popular pressure n their behalf Senator Curtis, republican whip, said he is certain the treaties will be ratified. The naval treaty, he thought, would be reported from committee first.

Democrats Openminded.

The demograts are maintaining their colicy of silence and openmindedness, pending an explanation of the treaties

"I am against anything in the nature of an alliance that binds the United States to the empires of the world," said France.

Senator Kellogs, of Minnesota, mild reservationist and member of the foreign relations committee, praised the treaties and the arms conference, calling it the "greatest diplomatic triumph this country ever had."

A Simple, Safe, Inexpensive Method That Clears Out the Head, Nose and

There is no disease more offensive or disagreeable, or no disease that will lead to as much serious trouble as catarrh. You can now get rid of it by a simple, safe, pleasant home remedy discovered by Dr. Blosser, a catarrh specialist.

Dr. Blosser's Remedy is composed of medicinal herbs, flowers and berries, which you smoke in a dainty pipe or cigarette. The smoke-vapor is inhaled into all the air passages of the head, nose, throat and lungs and carries medicine where sprays, douches and ointments cannot possibly reach. Its effect is soothing and healing and is entirely harmless. It contains no cubebs or tobacco, and may be used by women and children as well as men.

If you suffer from catarrh, asthma, catarrhal deafness, or if subject to frequent colds, you should fry this remedy. Satisfactory results guaranteed.

Dr. Blosser's Remedy may be had at any well stocked drug store; or if you desire proof of its beneficial and pleasant effect, send tep cents (coin or stampa) to The Blosser Co., 25 Dl), a Atlanta, Ga., for a trial package.—(adv.)

Doing business at a profit and operating at capacity

IF you could run your business at its full capacity, and sell your goods at a profit, would you care how much your printing

The cost of printing a catalog or any other kind of sales message depends on the extent to which it helps you sell goods. The printing that fails to help your business is dear at a penny. The printing to which many orders for your goods can be traced is never an expense.

Ask yourself this question: "What difference does it make how much my printed messages cost, if they enable me to do business at a profit and operate at capacity?"

The answer will give you a light on the subject of direct-by-mail advertising and will put you in the right frame of mind to talk business with a good printer.

Good printers know that better paper means better printing and that better printing means better selling.

It is to be regretted that Georgia is listed among the last-named group, the fourth state from the bottom of the list, with 83 per cent of her banks being not members

It is significant to note that of all the banks that have failed in ness interests—the bankers, the Georgia since the federal reserve system was created, only one of them was a member of the system, and that was a bank which failed because of a defalcation of one of its officers, and which had not produce. even made application for federal reserve assistance before the defaulting official committed suicide failure in Georgia since the federal reserve law became effective—the latest being the failure of a bank in Marietta a few days ago-the bank that has gone to the wall has been a non-member bank, outside of the scope of federal reserve protection.

It is next to impossible for s member bank to fail-it cannot fail, in fact-if it avails itself in time of the federal facilities that are at its disposal!

The truth is, politics is at the bottom of all of the criticism and the abuse to which the federal reserve banking system has been subjected. It is politics, pure and simple that is seeking to impair the value of a banking structure that has been demonstrated to be absolutely panic-proof; and, as Mr. Barnum suggests, the main question before the American people today is: Will the business men of the country permit politics to wreck and flushed with the life that glows like a dead, rotting phosphorescent fish along the white way.

There was a night in a roaming taxi. A visit to a drug den. A round of the illicit booze parlors. And then the race with death in an ambulance. An old tale along the dazzing canyon. In philosophic tones Broadway booms its sorrow with "A good to but foolish," and its sparkling waters mock the lips of those who die.

It seems probable that it was during this stage of the journey that he sustained the loss of blood which caused his death. The formation of first ald circles is an excellent thing in any community. It is not merely to hunters or prospective hunters that knowledge of how to treat emergency cases until the doctor's arrival is valuable. It is equally vital in accidents which may occur at any time at home, shop, factory or on the street, the railway or the highway. An important factor to be considered in this connection is that such knowledge, when it is needed at all, is likely to be needed as badly as to make its possession a matter of life or death.

He has headed some of Atlanta's biggest organizations and has been connected either directly or indirectly with every big forward movement that has been waged in Atlanta for two decades.

During his career Mr. Allen has served as president of the Southeastern Fair association, president of the chamber of commerce and has just recamber of commerce and has just re-cently retired as president of the At-lanta Retail Merchants' association. He also has served and continues to serve as director in these organiza-tions and in addition is a director of the Atlanta convention bureau and other leading civic organizations. He served also as state senator from Ful-ton county in the legislature of 1919 and 1920.

As president of the Southeastern Fair association he initiated many of the progressive movements which built that organization into the leading fair of any kind south of the Ohio river. of any kind south of the Ohio river. He planned and carried out the construction work of many of the buildings at Lakewood park, where the Southeastern fair is given annually. Miss Smith, who was an employee of the Keely company, met her death April 26, 1921. Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Smith, of Ingleside, filed a petition with the industrial commission seeking compensation under the workman's compensation law passed by the legislature of 1920.

Satterfield Never Entered His Home, Says Ben Simpkins

Ben Simpkins, whose house was searched on the night of February 1 by officers from Fulton county, while they were looking for J. B. Satterfield, alleged murderer of his brother-in-law, R. H. Hart, has addressed a communication to The Constitution in which he vigorously denies that Satterfield was in his house shortly prior to the arrival of the officers, as has been charged.

"The detectives had not a particle of evidence," said Mr. Simpkins, "that Satterfield had just left my house before their arrival. Had this been true, they should have pursued while the trail was hot. It was raining and no tracks were discernible, not a ray.

Would Rather Head the American Farm Bureau Federation Than Be Senator, Says J. R. Howard.

Declarations by J. R. Howard, pres-lent of the American Farm Bureau deration, that the seating of Sen-tor Newberry by the senate and the tposure of the Penrose "strong box" ete "disgusting," and that the pres-ency of the federation is a far reater honor than a seat in the nited States senate, were contained a letter received in Atlanta Mon-ty by C. A. Cobb, editor of The uthern sturalist.

Mr. Howard stated that the report at he may succeed Senator Kenyon at he may succeed Senator Kenyon senator from Iowa was entirely founded and declared that it would a bad thing for the federation to cept any political office.

Cobb Sends Telegram.

Cobb Sends Telegram.

Mr. Howard's letter was written in reply to a telegram sent him on February 2 by Mr. Cobb. Mr. Cobb's telegram was as follows: "News dispatches state that you are to succeed Senator Kenyon as senator from lowa. I hope this is a mistake. In my judgment it would be extremely unfortunate for you to give up the position you now hold for any sort of political preferment. You can do most good and the American farmer needs you most where you are.

"The whole thing looks like a scheme to destroy the influence of the A. F. B. F.; to blight the move for farm organization and to undo the agricultural bloc in congress. Some will tell you that this is recognition of the federation. I am unalterably against precedent you are setting if you accept office."

Howard's Answer.

Mr. Howard's answer follows:

"The report that I am to succeed Senator Kenyon is entirely unfounded. When the matter was first put up to me, I took some two or three days to consider it and my conclusions were that it would be a bad thing for the American Farm Bureau federation if I were to accept or for any of our leaders, in fact, to accept any political office, and I also concluded that I have a bigger and better position than a United States senatorship. There are 96 senators and only one American Farm Bureau federation.

"I could not maintain the standard of living, which is exceed of a United States senator, and support my family or properly educate my children on the salary the office pays. I am a man of only moderate means.

"The recent action of the senate in seating Newberry and the exposure of the Penrose "strong box's are disgusting. With these things in view I made a public announcement last Thursday morning at Columbus, Ohio, that I am not an aspirant for appointment."

Mr. Howard was unanimously re-Howard's Answer.

Risk in Honesty Mr. Withey went on to Says F.N. Withey

A system of grading honesty, which is almost, if not entirely, infallible, as used by the National Surety company, of New York city, will be described by Frederick N. Withey, vice president of the concern, in his address at the regular weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis club, at the Peacock cafe, at noon today. The subject of Mr. Withey's speech is "Gambling on Human Nature."

"We have evolved a strange psychology in this surety business," said Mr. Withey, in an interview Monday. "I can't tell you why the fat man, the profane man, the grouch, the nut or the married man is almost invariably honest, but I know he is. Call it "mental phenomena," if you please. "Take the fat man, you know the kind I mean. The one who orders a big sirloin steak with liberal garnishments of vegetables every time he eats,

Miss Dane's novels, "Regiment of Women" and "Legend," and her recent play on Shakespeare all mark her as a writer of fine power and of real note, and this will be, perhaps, their first opportunity that Atlantans will have to hear her read and discussed.

ing the past two weeks. Perhaps it is because the scenes are all quite familiar to us, having been sketched in and around Atlanta and in the mountains at Andrews, N. "Mrs. Turner received her early instruction under the best teachers of the east, and although coming to reside in Atlanta only since the opening of Emory university, where Dr. Turner is one of the faculty, she has taken her place among the best of our local artists."

Knocking the ashes from his cigarette, he said gravely:
"You mean that?"
She nodded, fingers twisting the pearl tassels that swung from the girdle of her gown.

There was a moment of silence, then he said:
"I rather suspected it. . . . In fact.

She might have added, "Anyone but myself." myself."

He nodded thoughtfully.

"I think I understand. I recall telling you that I felt you did not love me that day when I asked you to marry me. But I promised to make you love me. . . I am sure that I can some day. Will you let me try?"

"Of course," she agreed.

Why Not Love Him?

Inwardly she was wondering if it could not be gasily accomplished. Why should she not learn to love someone sired all her life?

He rose and came over to her, stood looking down at the bright hair that gleamed under the swinging lamps, at the eyes veiled with their sweeping lashes, at the pure oval of her face.

Then he reached out a lean, brown hand and cupped in it her rounded chin, raising it until her eyes were forced to meet his.

"Will you promise me, then, not to fear me—until that day comes?"
She nodded after a moment.

He went back to his chair and, stretching his lithe length comfortably in its cushions, selected another eigarette.

Jeanne nodded, but she was wordering if he had the faintest suspicion of the way she saw it ... wealth, fashion, the gay froth!

"Some day while we're idling around in tropical seas, I want to tell you all about this new enterprise of mine that's been occupying so much of my time and attention since I got out of the army. You know, it was dad's stake. He wanted to make something of me beyond being a mere rich man's son, so he gave me my inheritance at one whack, so to speak. Instead of waiting around for him to die before I came into what was mine by right of his generosity, he turned it over to me on my 21st birthday. Of course, the war delayed my making use of it; but, as soon as I got back from France, I looked the field over and selected the business that I wanted to build up. I have the invaluable asset of dad's advice, you see, and I really thing I'm go ing to make it go. I haven't got it in me to make the wholesale success dad made, but I'm not going to be a financial also-ran, I can tell you!"

He smiled at ner wnussically, and Jeanne murmured something appropriately encouraging.

Jeanne murmured something appropriately encouraging.

She was secretly delighted to hear that Barstowe had already come into his inheritance. An income from his father had been all she had expected him to have, though she knew that the son of a multimillionaire should receive a munificent sum. But to kno that already the Barstowe million were bestowed upon this only son was comforting and immensely gratifying. At once she began to plan how they should live, the income she would usk for her purely persona' expenses She wondered how early in the honeymoon it would be proper for her to approach such subjects. Everywhere they had gone there had been flattering newspaper comment, and the ubiquitous canera man to snap them as they entered or left the hotei.

When the yacht steamed into colder waters and a fur wrap replaced the soft silks and chiffons in which she had been swathed under the gay deck awning, she roused herself from the delightful lethargy into which she had fallen during the two weeks of her honeymoon.

She was ready for the fray now! She was prepared to take her place as Victor Barstowe's wife and steer his social bark for him, while he occupied himself in the newly-launched business which Jeanne secretly regarded as his fad.

When the skyline of New York became visible, she stood beside him at the rail, her hand tucked gratefully in his.

in that fortnight. He had been kind and considerate, always thoughtful for her comfort, always deferring to her wish, and yet doing so without the slightest suggestion of subservience, which she would have termed weakness and met with a curied lip.

Even though she told herself that her young husband was a toy in her hands which she would wind and set through its paces when it pleased her, she was not herself assured that this was the truth. The uncertainty piqued her. She rather looked forward to a crisis that would openly test her power. A Disquieting Remark.

A Disquieting Remark.

Barstowe slipped an arm around her as she leaned on the rail beside him, the freshening breeze sending curly tendrils of her hair blowing across his face. It was approaching the sunset hour, and the bay was like molten gold with a flame lighting the western sky.

"Are you glad to get home again, dear? Do you think you'll be happy living out of town with mother and dad for a while?"

A vision of the palatial Barstowe country place drifted transiently across the face of the sunset, and Jeanne nodded.

"It think I shall be very happy," she replied. "Will you?"

THE HOMEWARD BOUNDER.

THE HOMEWARD BOUNDER.
Since men first went to sea the homeward bounder has been exuberant and trustful. He has been fowl for the plucking and food for the shark and only one in a hundred has learned to be wary.

Cap Bobble and Ed Kirk owed their green suits and their fat wallets to these same homeward bounders, for Cap and Ed were as unscrupulous a pair as ever haunted the waterfront in the days before Volstead acted. It was their business to meet the returning sailors, off of the packing company ships that sail to Alaska, and to show to the fishermen the delights of land. A week of debauchery with Cap and Ed always resulted for the victim in an awakening to sobriety and the discovery that he had just $10 left in his jeans of a season's pay.

For years Cap and Ed had met the

For years Cap and Ed had met the homeward bounders, and it is proof of the trustfulness of the latter that many of them fell more than once for a game that is as old as the water-a game that is as old as the water-front.

"You see," Cap explained once, "they haven't anything to do and they are looking for a good time. We give it to them and we watch out that the bartenders: and the bums don't steal their money. After a day or two most of them turn their rolls over to us for safekeeping and we deal out the bills each day. They get more for their money with us than if they started out alone."

And the Cap would have it that, in a small way, he was a benefactor. Young Eric Nelson, blond and a giant, was one of those who gave, the fruits of six months' fishing to the partnership of Cap and Ed. And Eric was a homeward bounder who did not forget.

It was natural that when the nation It was natural that when the nation went dry Ed and Cap should become bootleggers. And it was inevitable that they should fall under suspicion. A day came when revenue men descended upon their business, which was running liquor down from Canada, and the two found it more than expedient to take a trip to Mexico. That is why one night Cap and Ed put out from San Pedro in a small boat and hâled a barkentine they knew was bound for South American ports. was bound for South American ports.

Sore and exhausted, the two followed. In the hold was the rice as dry as powder and there, below the hatch, was a large cask which had been kept siphoned full of water. The reach of the pump worked by Cap and Ed extended into its depths.

The two turned angrily to the captain of the Cista who stood menacing, ly near with his great fists doubled. "What's it all about?" asked a wilted Ed and the captain answered:

"It's only a little joke—the joke of a homeward bounder."

PAULINE FREDERICK . MARRIED SATURDAY

Santa Ana, Cal., February 6.—Pauline Frederick, motion picture actress, formerly well known on the legitimate stage, was married here Saturday exping to C. A. Rutherford, of Seattle, whom she said was her second cousin and known to her all of her life. Miss Frederick returned quietly to Los Angeles after the wedding and she said she expected to return to work in a studio there today.

Miss Louise Dressler and Jack Gardner, both of Los Angeles, were the only witnesses.

for the role of Gwendolyn, if we can make her lose her French accent."

Miss Gates sent for Viola and nearly swooned when she learned that the "child" as she called her was an American, born in New York, and the "French accent" had been carefully cultivated for her role in "The Model." The result of that visit was two-fold. First it gave little Viola her greatest opportunity up to that time—to play Gwendolyn in "The Poor Little Rich Girl," and it changed her name. Miss Gates declared that Flugrath was a handicap, because it didn't "fit" the diminutive Viola, so she rechristened her Viola Dana—and so it is that we know her.

It was during the summer rests that Mrs. Flugrath first consented to allowing her girls to do little parts at the Edison studios, one of the great centers when the motion picture industry was a new and untried art. And although she never seriously thought of permitting her children to "go into the movies," what came after that first successful venture on the screen is known to all film fans. Edne Flugrath has achieved enormous popularity in England, where she makes her home, Shirley has built a name for herself in America, and Viola Dana is one of the most popular comediennes known to the silversheet, one of the most gifted and one of the most beloved.

CLAY MODELLING AT HOME STEPS IN MODELLING A CHICK

OUR OBSERVER AT THE ART INSTITUTE OF CHICAGO. Every way you turn you will see things you can model in clay. There are ink bottles, telephones—a world of things! In the picture the artist has suggested a few. His little chick is very easy to make.

is very easy to make.

First flatten out a piece of clay for the base of the figure. Then roll an egg-shaped ball of clay for the chick's body. Make another ball, this one much smaller, for its head. For its legs, cover two toothpicks with clay and then stick them into the chick's body. Attach the head. Then, with your home-made modelling tools and your fingers, model the chick's bill, it eyes and indicate its feathers.

Make a Dog or Cat. Make a Dog or Cat.

Make a Dog or Cat.

You might also try making a dog or a cat. The artist has shown how these figures can be modeled without the use of armatures or frames to hold up the body. The dog, as you see, is crouched low. His body is a solid mass of clay. The cat, curled upon the floor, is also a solid mass. There are no thin legs to break easily is in the case of the giraffe.

The frame for the giraffe is very easy to make. The body of the armature consists of a small block of wood, and the neck and legs are made of pieces of wire. Study the drawing of the armature closely, and you will note that the pieces of wire are fastened to the block of wood after first being ent 8-shape at one end. Painting the Models.

As promised last week, the painting of your models will be explained.

Do not try to paint the model until the clay has become very dry. Apply whatever water colors you want, using a bristle brush rather than a camel's hair brush. Allow each coat of paint to dry before adding another.

After you have painted your model, give it a glossy finish by applying a coat of white shellac. This may be purchased for a small sum at the art store.

Apply the shellac with a bristle brush also. Do not touch the shellac with your fingers while it is wet. An ugly spot will result if you do. Next week the making of clay pictures and candlesticks will be discussed.

They called him Brownie Owl and he answered when they called him by name. Migs would hold out her hand and Brownie Owl would climb her arm and nestle against her cheek. He would look into her face with his strange eyes which seemed to say. "I am so grateful for the way you have taken care of me. I wish I could do something for you."

The summer was passing fast, it would soon be time for the family to go back to the city so that Ted and Migs could start to school again. They had a hard time keeping the tears back when they talked about leaving Brownie Owl, for there was, of course, no place for him in the city.

The night before they were to leave, when their grips were all packed, some friends who were going back to the city and had been delayed came to spend the night with them. Ted had to sleep on the couch in the living room. The windows were open,

Ted had been asleep for a long time when he was awakened by a peculiar noise. He opened his eyes and almost screamed when he saw a dark shadow—the shadow of a human—moving about, with something shining in his hand. It was a gun!

Ted and Migs found him one day where he had fallen from his tree home. Something must have happened to his parents, for he seemed to be an orphan. He was a funny little brown owl with solemn big eyes and a queer way of hopping clong.

The boys brought him into the house, although he seemed frightened to death, and fed him, laughing to see how he watched them as he pecked at the bits of bread soaked in milk. After a while he was strong enough to fly about and perch on a tree all by himself, but all summer he hung around their cottage, following Ted and Migs about as faithfully as a dog.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggiet, pour it into a plat bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full tiut. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungsloogens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthms.

Finex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract known the world over for its healing effect on membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

"You haven't found Nola?" she

"I know right where she is. I could put my hands on her if I could reach her." "Then why"-

"Hell!" said Chadron, bursting into a fire of passion. "Why can't I fly like an eagle? Young woman, I've got to tell you I've been beat and tricked for the first time in my life! They've got my men hemmedd in, I tell you—they've got 'em shut up in a

"What in the hell do you mean?" he asked, crouching as he spoke, his teeth clenched, his voice smothered in his throat.

"I mean that I know you're a murderer—and worse! You hired those men, like you hired Mark Thorn, to come here and murder those innocent men and their families!"

"Well, what if I did?" he said, standing straight again, his composure returning. "They're thieves, they've been living off my cattle for years. Anybody's got a right to kill a rustler—that's the only cure. Well, they'll not pen them of minue up there till they crack for water, I'll bet you a purty on that! I'm goin after soldiers, and this time I'll get 'em, too."

"Soldiers!" said she in amazement. "Will you ask the United States government to march troops here to save your hired assassins? Well, you'll not get troops—not if there's anything that I can say against you to keep you from it!"

"The one condition that I part company with you is that you ride ahead, this instant, and put your horse there will have been in him."

"And leave you to fight six of them!"

"Staying here would only put you in unnecessary danger. I ask you to go, and go at once."

"There ain't no man in this country that I answer to!" returned Chadron, not without dignity, for power undisputed for so long and in such large affairs had given him a certain manner of imperialism.

"It won't do you any good if you lo," Chadron growled, turning and throwing the door open with gruff decision. He stood a moment glowering at her, his shoulders thrust into the room. "You can't leave here till I'm ready for you to go—I'm goin' to put my men on the watch for you. If you try it afoot they'll fetch you back, and if you git stubborn and try to ride off from 'em, they'll shoot your horse. You take my word that I mean it, and set down and be good."

"I wronged you and slandered you," she said, in bitter confession, "and I let you go when I should have spoken! I'm not worthy to ride along this road with you, Alan Macdonald, but I need your protection. I need your help. Will you let me go?"

He checked his horse and looked across at her, a tender softening coming into his tired face.

"Why, God bless you! there's only one road in the world for you and me," said he. His hand met hers where it fluttered like a dove between them; his slow, translating smile woke in his eyes and spread like a sunbeam over his stern lips.

There was a commotion among the men at the gate, a hurrying and loud words. Nola was beckoning to Frances to return: now she called her namewith fearful entreaty.

"That's Chance Dalton with his arm in a sling," said Macdonald. "What's up?"

That's Chance Dalton with his arm in a sling," said Macdonald. "What's up." "Chadron has made them all believe that damned Macdonald done it—led 'em into it like they was blind! He skulked ahead of 'em with a little pack of rustlers, and led 'em into his trap. They've got fifty of my men shut up there where they can't git to water, and where they can't fight back. Now, what do you think of that?"

"I'll tell you what I think," she said, throwing up her head, her eyes as quick and bright as water in the sun. "I think it's the judgment of God! I glory in the trick Alan Macdonald played you, and I pray God he can shut your hired murderers there till the last red-handed devil dies of thirst!"

CHAPTER VII. Danger and Dignity.

"Did you carry her that way all the way home?"

Frances asked the question abrupily, like one throwing down some troublesome and heavy thing that she had labored gallantly to conceal. It was the first word that she had spoken since they had taken refuge from their close-pressing pursuers in the dugout that some old-time homesteader had been driven away by Chadron's cowboys.

Macdonald was keeping his horse back from the door with the barrel of his rifle, while he peered out cautiously again, perplexed as to why Dalton had not led his men against Element of Luck.

The element of luck is the deciding factor in basketball. This is freely admitted by those that have made careful studies of the pastime. Review every game played here this is season and you must of necessity come to the same conclusion.

Some nights a quintet gets the breaks; at other times it doesn't. And we have learned that on the lucky nights the players were unbeatable, and at the other times they looked pretty raw.

Coach Bean and other followers of the pastime locals are very frank to admit they are looking for a reversal of form tonight by Alabama. This means they believe it is time for fortune to smile on the warriors from Tuscaloosa. They declare it will probably prove the hardest game for the A. A. C., excepting, of course, the tests that must come in the national championship tournament.

PREPS' FINAL DRUID HILLS

This afternoon at 3 o'clock the final round of the first half of the prep basketball league will be played the City Auditorium court. The imission to both games is 50 cents. G. M. A. and Boys' High meet in th first game, while University and Marist play the final game. Tech High will have an off day.

The games will have a direct bearing in the league standing of the teams involved. A win for University over Marist will leave University in second place, while a victory for Marist will place University in a tie for second place. A victory for Boys' High will leave them with two win and two losses.

B. H. S. Favored. Boys' High is favored to win the game over G. M. A., inasmuch as it was announced that King, all-prep center of last year, will not play any more with the endets. Coach Bur-bage is hoping to have the star center in uniform this "" "noon if the doc-

Powerful Team.

The Tuscaloosans were defeated the other night, but the customers left the Auditorium with the decided hunch that Alabama has a powerful bisket; ball machine, one that will give any sort of company considerable entertialment.

The sentiment expressed universally by the critics fortunate enough to have been present at Tech's splendid triumph, were unanimous in saying that the breaks of fortune that came Alabama's way were few and far between.

We recall, too, that one expert stated Alabama appeared unable to become accustomed to the court before it was too late. A rally by the visitors just at the close of the game would seem to bear out this testimony. So if Lady Luck is sweet to Alabama tonight, and if the visiting players ers get their bearings quickly, the Crimson is hardly likely to be outclassed.

LEONARD TO GOLF CHAMPS MEET KANSAS TO PLAY HERE

New York, February 6.2-Benny Leonard and Rocky Kansas will resume their Jersey waltz here Friday night after an intermission of more than half a year and Leonard this time undoubtedly will try to send the Iron Man to the junk yard. They are to go 15 rounds to decision and the lightweight title is at stake.

They have met twice before, once in Buffalo, on which occasion Kansas spent half his time on the floor and the rest of the time getting up, being flopped about six times. Their second fight was a pens-porridge-hot slapping affair in Harrison, N. J., in which Leonard, handily outpointing Kansas, was careful not to rough him up and thus spoil him for a return fight at Madison Square Garden, which is now impending.

Leonard ought to give Kansas a sound spanking this time but Rocky is a good gamble to go the distance for he owns on iron jaw and wears springs on his shoulder-blades.

Zbysczo's shoulders touched the mat for a brief instant when Caddock bounced him to the mat with a chancery and arm lock and the American boy won a fall, the second of the bout.

They had been rolling about the mat for 25 minutes when Zbysczo took the first fall. It was an instantaneous contact of Earl's shoulders, but under the commission rules counting rolling, flying and pin-falls, Zbyszco was credited with the first victory. Caddock took 10 minutes and 30 seconds to down Zbyszco, and the aged Pole finished the bout with a rolling fall after 19 minutes more.

Neither of Zhysczo's falls were per-ceptible, but the referee knows roll-ing falls are a matter of split seconds anyway, and these two evoked an un-usual storm of booing.

Ebbie Johnson, negro, who was arrested on the night of February 1, charged with shooting his wife, Mamie Johnson, with a revolver, walked into police headquarters Monday night and surrendered himself, telling the officers his wife had succumbed to the wound in the leg. When Johnson was released on bond the wound he inflieted was not expected to prove fatal. He is held charged with murder.

PATROLMAN IS INJURED Two Other Accidents Reported in Car Collisions.

J. C. Clarke, a traffic policeman, was painfully injured Monday night when he was struck by a street car at the corner of Peachtree and Edgewood avenue. He was taken to Grady hospital where his injury was treated after which he was taken home. Patrolman Clarke had just waived a car on the eastern track to come by and had stepped on a western track when he was struck.

A. C. Armstrong, of 161 South Pryor street, sustained lacerations about the face and head Monday night when the truck he was driving struck a street car at the corner or Brotherton and Whitehall street. He was treaty at Grady hospital.

Lewis Brady, negro, also was injured in a street car accident Monday night when the buggy he was driving was struck by a Stewart avenue car at Stewart avenue and Glen street. His injuries were not serious.

STEWART AND BANKS PLAY 4 MORE GAMES

Glasgow, Scotland, February 6,— Robert Stewart, of Glasgow, and Nevell W. Banks, of Detroit, playing or the world's checkers championship, for the world's checkers championship, played four drawn games today, thus bringing the number of drawn games since the match began to 24. Stew-art has won two while the American has yet to win a game.

Tech Will Play Auburn in "Loveliest Village" Saturday Night in Return Battle.

At that time Mercer was playing unbeatable bill, and the vistory was guite a ferther in the Camp Bands of core in the Georgia Tech chapel at guite a ferther in the Camp Bands of Golek. Monday was the first of care in that Tech will win that game or can you be suce amoutuely the other way. In any event, it will be worth reading about.

Auburn—that brings up pleasant memories doesn't it? Or, maybe, you only sinember 1919. Anyway, for some little time the two institutions have been meeting each other on the athletic filed. Sometimes they beat us and then again we beat them. That's why it's so hard to tell anything about these Auburn—free games.

Each knows the other's stuff, so you've so to be about a thousand per cent better than them if you expect to wing.

The schedule for the week is ambitious, to kay the least. In the first place, the Jackets tackle the Agogas on the Athletic club court. This could not be called a practice affair in any sense of the word. The Agogas on the Athletic club court. This could not be called a practice affair in any sense of the word. At that time the viestory was and furious.

Captain Barron closed the meeting with a few remarks becoming to the captain of a team. He declar I that he wanted every man to stand by the school and work. "If we are going to bave a championship nine we must work for it." He said that he intended to put out and expected every candidate to do the same. The team is not chosen yet, he said, and no man has cinched his position.

Four of the hardest games of the Co-Ed league will be played this afternoon. Griffin High is scheduled to play Marietta High a couple of battles on the latter's court, while Kirkwood will play the Decatur quintets tonight. From indications it looks now as if the championship in the boys' league will be settled with this game, for, if Marietta High wins from Griffin, then the pennant will probably float around in Cobb county, but since Griffin won from Marietta in an early game this season, it seems that Marietta will not have a walk away.

The Griffin High girls also won from the Marietta girls on their last appearance and are doped to do some more damage. Griffin lost to Fulton High here last Friday, but their loss might be laid to the fact that two of their best player were out of the game. Marietta girls have been showing up well of lately. The Real Test.

The Real Test.

The real test of the day will come tonight at 8 o'clock, when the Kirkwood High girls take the court against Decatur High on the latter's court. The Decatur girls have not lost a game this season and Kirkwood seems to be the only team that has a chance of stopping the Decatur lassies. Decatur won from Kirkwood in the first game of the season, but since that time Kirkwood has improved greatly. If Decatur wins tonight then the pennant had just as well be given to

Goes to Jai Alimony to Wife

Savannah, Ga., February 6.—(Special.)—Zary Stokes, Sl years old, suing his wife, aged 70, for divorce, early today went to the county jall and, according to the jailer, "attempted to break in" to serve time rather than pay alimony of $5 a month under a judgment of more than a year's standing, his wife having petitioned alimony late in 1920.

Rather than pay it he in turn sued for total divorce. He refuses to pay alimony and declared he was anxious to take it out in jall.

When he reported he was indignant that he could not get in because the court order for jail sentence for contempt had not been signed. Judge Peter Meldrim signed it later today and the aged man is in jail.

Judge Meldrim said as he signed the order that he "wished he could keep the defendant in jait for life."

BREAKS RECORD Are Running At Full Capacity

Chicago, February 6.—New climbing of prices in the wheat market today resulted in the highest level being reached since September 27, 1921. The ascent was preceded by word of a fresh upturn in grain values at Liverpool and Buenos Aires. Closing quotations here were firm, 21-8 to 31-2c net higher, with May at $1.28 3-8 to $1.28 1-2, and July at $1.10 5-8 to $1.28 1-2, and July at $1.10 5-8 to $1.10 3-4. Corn scored a net advance of 21-8 to 25-8e and oats of 5-8c to 13-8c. In provisions the putcome was unchanged to 12c higher.

Optimistic views expressed by leading authorities here had a good deal to do with causing a somewhat general impression among wheat traders that strong concerted efforts were in progress to bring about a better outlet for farm products at remunerative prices. Announcement, therefore, let for farm products at remaining the prices. Announcement, therefore, that prices were higher at foreign centers tended to give the market here a decided upward swing. Furthermore, evidence was at hand that a liberal amount of export business, was under way and it was apparent also that instead of an increase, which had been looked for in the United had been looked for in the States visible conditions for the domestic winter crop in the southwest, operated as an additional factor in sending prices upgrade and preventing any important setback during the last part of the day.

Reports of stoppage of selling on the part of rural holders of corn led to urgent bidding from shorts in the corn market. Besides, export demand for corn was again active. Oats ascended with corn.

Provisions were governed by the action of cereals and hogs.

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS

ON COTTON SITUATION New York, February 6.—(Special.)—The Liverpool market was very weak this morning as a result of continued effects of the boycott in India. Our market failed to meet this decline although opening some 20 points under Saturday's close. There was considerable pressure from Liverpool and the south, but there was sufficient trade demand to sustain values after Liverpool closed. We gradually improved and ruled quiet and steady during the greater part of the day. The fact that the market does not decline in the face of unsatisfactory conditions in England is worthy of note and indicates that most of the weak cotton has been sold and that the usual liquidation which takes place at this time of the year is about over. We expect the market to remain dull and steady somewhere around these prices.

AMERICAN EXCHANGE.

New York, February 6.—Early declines were followed by railies in a comparatively quiet cotton market nere touay. May sold off 16.15 on the early decline, making a loss of approximately $3 per bale as compared with the nigh price touched toward the end of last week. Demand improved slightly around this figure, while selling was light and the price railied to 10.45, closing at 16.40, compared with 16.41 at the close of last week. The general market closed steady, net 6 points lower to 1 point higher.

steady, net 6 points lower to 1 point higher.

The market opened barely steady at a decline of 13 to 21 points with active months selling 20 to 27 points net lower during the middle of the morning under scattering liquidation, Liverpool straddle selling and local pressure. The latter was encouraged by the weakness of Liverpool, reports of unfavorable trade conditions in Lancashire and nervousness over the New cashire and nervousness over the New England labor situation. These fea-tures did not appear to be bringing out increased offerings from the south, however, and as soon as the early selling movement slackened the mar-ket became quiet and comparatively steady. There were reports of a little trade buying which probably led to renewed covering by shorts and the one of the market was helped by the firmness of foreign exchange and continued firmness of grain. In connection with the latter, rumors were circulated that strong financial and business interests had been supporting wheat with a view to bringing about ATLANTA LIVE STOCK MARKET.

LOSSES RECOVERED

AT NEW ORLEANS New Orleans, February 6.—While the tone was soft in the early trading in cotton today and there were de-clines at that time of 21 to 32 points, clines at that time of 21 to 32 points, the later trading brought a marked increase in steadiness, the early losses were recovered and the old crop months at one stage in the late trading were sent 2 to 5 points higher than the close of Saturday. March at its lowest sold down to 15.28 and at its highest at 15.62. On the close the list was unchanged to 3 points down net on the day, with March at 15.57.

For the declines the weakness of Liverpool was mainly responsible, although uncertainty of the New England mill situation was also against values. Rains in the belt over Sunday caused only moderate selling, as many traders seemed to think that the belt needed fair weather rather than more moisture in order to go ahead belt needed fair weather rather than more moisture in order to go ahead with preparations for the new crop.

After the first selling flurry the supply of contracts became very limited and a much better demand came from shorts. Seadiness in the stock market encouraged buying of cotton, in a limited way. Late in the session the market was almost bare of contracts and moderate buying was sufficient to put prices to the highest of the session.

NEW YORK BONDS

Studebaker and Baldwin Make New High Records BY R. L. BARNUM

New York, February 6.—Trading during the first hour today was at the rate of nearly a million and a quarter shares for a full five hours' session. After that there was less activity, but the market was fairly active throughout the day, managers of speculative pools were more in evidence today than any time last week, which is saying a good deal. Part of the slowing down later in the day was due to wire troubles, restricting the volume of out-of-town business. New high records for the year were made in Baldwin, Studebaker and a number of other shares. Studebaker sold higher than its high 1921 price of 93 1-4.

Corn Products equalled its old high of 105 1-4. That is the high price for all time. The preferred, however, sold during the war period as high as 113 1-2.

Last week at the close the prediction was made in this solution.

as high as 113 1-2.

Last week at the close the prediction was made in this column that more was going to be heard in the near future about foreign loans, today rumors were heard in banking circles here that negotiations were on for one loan of $50,000,000 to Peru and another one of from $25,000,000 to $50,000,000 to Holland.

Dispatches from the west stated today that there had been an improvement during the past few days in the demand for steel products and that production in the Youngstown district was going to be speeded up. It was also stated that the negotiations for the merger of Midvale and other independent steel plants had again been taken up.

Great Northern Ore was one of the very active stocks today with Great Northern Ore was one of the very active stocks today with prices higher. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe was another. There was no news on either. But rumors that these stocks were going higher were flying about in all directions. There is a pool in both stocks.

J. P. Morgan & Co. headed a large banking syndicate making an offering at the opening of business today of $3,000,000 30-year Great Northern 5 1-2 per cent bonds at 96 1-2 to yield 5 3-4 per cent. It was stated at 10:15 o'clock, or fifteen minutes after the books were opened, that all of the bonds had been slod. The bonds "when issued" appeared on the curb market with the initial transaction 98 3-4 'sued' appeared on the curb market with the initial transaction 96 3-4.

Then there was a sharp advance to 97 1-4.

Increase in Sales.

American Wool has withdrawn some of its overcoatings from sale. Last week a number of women's wear lines, which make up one-third of production, were withdrawn.

Rumors are heard here that Manhattan Shirt is to be merged with Cluett-Peabody and a company making soft collars. Manhattan has recently been very strong on these reports, which today were denied by officials of the company, who added that orders since the beginning of the current fiscal year ending December 1 have been larger by 30 per cent than for the same period of the previous year.

Standard Oil officials here say oil prices all along have weakened during a very large percentage of the sur-plus available for interest and divi-prices all along have weakened during the past few days and additional cuts in crude followed by adjustments in finished products are predicted. Gas-oline was cut today in New England and in Louisiana.

Less Employment. Today's government weekly soft coal production figures confirm the state-ment just issued by the department

Increase in Sales.

Woolworth reported today sales for January of $9,519,000, an increase of $1,118,000, or 14 1-4 per cent over the same period of last year.

A new high record for cigarette production was made last year at 51,600,884,000,000 in round numbers. This was an increase over 1920 of 16 per cent. However, in all other to-bacco lines there was a decrease; cigarettes being 0.9 per cent; snuff, 3 per cent, and cigars, 15 per cent.

Net operating income of 136 class

This was an increase over 1920 of 16 per cent. However, in all other to-bacco lines there was a decrease; cigarettes being 0.9 per cent; snuff, 3 per cent, and cigars, 15 per cent.

Jesse R. Taylor has resigned as vice president of United Cigars. Only recently the president and one of the vice presidents resigned. Rumors have it that the vacancies in this company's executive are due to drastic salary cats.

American Wool has withdrawn some of its overcoatings from sale. Last week a number of women's wear lines, which make up one-third of production, were withdrawn.

Rumors are heard here that Mannard with the company of the surgest of the surg

New York, February 6 .- The drive stock market was vigorously resumed at the outset of today's trading, but lost some of its force later in the absence of more than a moderate pub-

Steels were unaffected by contradictory rumors regarding the progress of the proposed merger of independent companies, but Cluett-Peabody, which recently emerged from obscurity, broke sharply as a result of its poor earnings.

Mixed conditions prevailed in the oil Feb. 14 trade, as was indicated by a 1-cent advance in Indiana gasoline prices and a 2-cent cut for the same product in New England.

Developments of a general charac-ter mainly favored the constructive side, as did also the tone of the money market and foreign exchanges. West-ern centers reported a better invest-ment inquiry and further gains in railroad tonnage, due largely to in-creased grain exports.

Heavy accessions to local reserves of interior banks soon forced the pening rate of call loans down from 51-2 to 5 per cent on the exchange and 41-2 per cent in private offerings. Time funds were unaltered, however, 5 per cent being demanded
for long-time maturities.

Exchange on London essed only

for long-time maturities.

Exchange on London eased only slightly from the high record of the past two and a half years, made last Saturday, the reaction being ascribed to profittaking by speculative interests. Other remittances notably the French and Belgian rates, were strong Swiss, Spanish and Greek bills also displaying firmness.

Liberty bonds recorded further recessions in connection with Washington advices respecting soldier bonus legislation. Aside from the strength shown by various junior nus legislation. Aside from the strength abown by various junior railroad bonds, interest in that market centered around the successful flotation of the new Great Northern railway issue. Total sales, par value, $14,375,000.

BRITISH EXCHANGE CONTINUES RISE

New York, February 6.—Exchange on London today continued its persistent rise, rallying after the close of the stock market to $4,331-8 for demand bills. The previous high quotation of the past two and a half years was $4.321-2, made last week. Dealers in exchange were at a loss to account for the steady advance of this remittance on any ground other than the improvement shown in Great Britain's foreign trade.

Two Members Taken in By Eagle Social Club At Emory University

BY HERMAN D. HANCOCK. Called from their rooms by the rumor that Emory boys were looking for "the girl of yesterday," those of the fairer sex at Agnes Scott and Cox college crowded the windows, each wishing to see the newly elected initiates of the Eagle Social club of Emory university.

thates of the Eagle Social club of Emory university.

What a sensation of excitement the two initiates of the club created when they made their appearance! Leonard Graydon, in a full dress, with cardboard bearing the name of the Eagle club, and Ervine Hankinson, who impersonated a farmer, were the two initiates, who were paraded to Nunnally's and other prominent places where the fairer sex visit during the afternoons.

When the party arrived at Cox college Hankinson was made to go in and find the girl sought for. While he was thus engaged, Graydon was told to buy refreshments for the crowd about four miles from Atlanta, where he was left.

AT ARMY AUCTION

Thousands of army articles, ranging from shelter tents to shoe strings and coat buttons, were auctioned off for approximately $2,000,000 Monday at Candler warehouse by J. Hall Miller, Atlanta auctioneer, representing the United States government. The government decided recently to give up the warehouse and to dispose by auction of the enormous quantity of war material there, which has an estimated value of $10,000,000. The highest bidder of the day, it is stated, was John T. Hickey, of Philadelphia, who purchased approximately 75,000 army blankets at about $1.25 3-4 apiece, approximating $95,000. Other big purchasers were Cal Hirsch, of Los Angeles; the Twin Brothers company, of Columbia, S. C.; Stein & Co., Atlanta; the West Point Wholesale Grocery company, West Point, Ga.; the American Mills company and the M. & G. Junk company, Atlanta, and Isaac Lehman, head of the Army and Navy Goods Dealers' association, of New York city.

Among the materials auctioned off were 200,000 barrack bags, at about 18 cents each; 144,448 reclaimed bed 18 cents each; 144,448 reclaimed bed sacks, at about 18 cents each; 1,000,000 shoe strings; 1,000,000 legging laces; a couple of million buttons; 186,000 blankets, ranging in price from $1.26 to $2.07, and 20.000 shelter tents.

Thousands of prospective bidders swarmed the Candler warehouse Monday from 10 to 4 o'clock, and as many are expected to be present when the auction continues at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. The auction will close at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and if all the army material is not sold it will continue Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

it will continue Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

The principal articles to go on the auction block Tuesday include 298,105 olive drab new flannel shirts; 386,971 wool winter drawers; 815,861 cotton summer undershirts and 1,106,916 cotton summer drawers.

Buyers Monday came from every section of the United States. Approximately 75 purchasers from New York, Chicago, St. Louis, Los Angeles and other cities in the country have made their headquarters at the Ansley hotel. Government representatives, headed by G. E. Edgertson, director of sales for the war department, are stopping at the Piedmont hotel.

A banquet was given wholesale dealers and salesmen representing concerns of national reputation, who are night at 7 o'clock.

Every prospective bidder is required to make a cash deposit of $250. No delivery will be made until payment in full have been received and the goods are sold by sample. Those in charge desire to dispose of the Candler warehouse supplies before July 1, when the place must be vacated.

Father Meriwether, Aged Priest, Dies At Hospital Here

Rev. Father William A. Meriwether, 88, one of the first five students in the American college at Rome, and in-strumental in the establishment of that college, died at 10:15 o'clock last that college, died at 10:15 o'clock last night at St. Joseph's hospital. He was a descendant of the famous Meri-wether who came down from Virginia to Georgia and took an active part in the state's life after the revolution, a county being named for him. Father Meriwether had been under the care of a physician since the night of the burning of St. Stanislaus col-lege, in Macon, to which he was great-ly devoted, having spent twenty-three years of his life there as treasurer, and later as chaplain of the institution.

later as chaplain of the institution. On that night it was necessary for firemen and students to force him away from the building, as he endangered his life by trying to rescue a number of his rare old books. He is said to have been one of the greatest students in the Jesuit oyder.

Before he became a priest, approximately fifty years ago, he was a physician. Converted to the Catholic church, he studied at home and abroad in Rome. Returning, he took parishes until twenty-five years ago, when he untered the Jesuit order. He was at Galveston, Texas, for three years and then came to St. Stanislau. He was regarded as the dean of priests at that college.

Dr. Malone issued the following statement:

"Last Saturday, when the bank examiner informed myself and the other directors of the Marietta Banking and Trust company of the shortage he had found against our vice president, Mr. A. H. Gilbert, and our cashier, Mr. George H. Sessions, the two active officials of the bank, we were dumfounded. It came like a thunderclap from a clear sky.

"The sworn statement made by the bank at the recent call of the state banking department and published in our local papers was a good and highly satisfactory showing. The bank owed nothing and had a large amount of cash on hand and in other banks. And the daily were able to detect it.

Books Regulary Examined.

"The present officers have been in charge of the bank since 1907. I have never been an active officer and have never darwn any salary. I have appointed an auditing committee regularly from the board of directors who twice a year have gone through and examined every note and security of the bank and counted the cash. I have all this time had the two officials, Mr. Gilbert and Mr. Sessions, under bond of $12,500 each, both of which are now in force and will be paid. Mr. Gilbert has turned over his equity in his fine apartment building here, on which the bank should realize more than $20,000.

"This may be called an instance of too much confidence. It certainly is one of misplaced confidence. Mr. Gilbert and Mr. Sessions were both born and reared in Marietta and belong to well-known and highly respected families. They have never followed anything else but banking. They are both strictly sober men, industrious and attentive to their duties, and during all their lives have had the esteem and confidence of the public. Their going wrong can be no greater surprise to the public than to the bank directors.

"But whether the bank is reorganized under new management, or is liquidated by the state banking department, the depositors should not lose much, if anything. Everything possible is being done by the directors to safeguard the depositors and all others concerned."

books of the town of Kirkwood, so as such inaccuracies or discrepancies may be properly accounted for."

The paper stated that the mayor and council considered the property which Ray agreed to turn over in lieu of the alleged shortage to be worth $4,000.

"It is astonishing that one who has had so many opportunities of learning how and so much instruction from previous audits and recommendations given therewith, should continue to keep such imperfect and incomplete records," he continued, "and especially is this incomprehensible when you know that the late clerk had 10 years or more of experience in this office."

Commenting further he pointed out that "there was no safe, systematic

Commenting further he pointed out that "there was no safe, systematic guard thrown around him and he had his own way."

Fear for legality of the manner of settlement between Kirkwood's council and Ray were expressed by the auditor, who asserted "I doubt its legality and fear that they have placed them selves in an unenviable position in and tear that they have placed them selves in an unenviable position in thus 'approving' the 'diversion' of the public funds, (see Art. 3, Sec. 901, and Art. 2, Sec. S66, Vol. 1, state code, 1911) but, under the circum stances it behooves me only to give you the facts, which I have endeavored to do.

Regrets Poor Showing.

"As a citizen of the late town of Kirkwood, I regret exceedingly the poor showing that the report makes and blush with shame at the indifference of previous administrations, the heedlessness of the just passed one in the apparently unnecessary making of new contracts and other indebted of new contracts and other indebtedness to pass over to you, and especially is this so with those made since it became known that we were to go into Atlanta."

An itemized list of the collections which Ray is alleged to have diverted to his own use was appended and included one item of $340 of state funds paid into the school account an item.

paid into the school account, an item of $100 paid by the Georgia Railway of $100 paid by the Georgia Railway and Power compeny, and amounts mostly in sums less than $50 representing back taxes, sewers, streets and gutter assessments. The list dated back to 1916.

According to the report Ray was under $2,000 bond.

Mr. Ray could not be reached Monday night for a statement of his side of the case.

PINK NIGHTGOWN

OWNER IDENTIFIED

the crime was committed, and for three weeks before, but who is now missing. This man is alleged to have arrived here expecting to announce his engagement to a well-known star. The engagement was not announced.

He is said to have left Los Angeles for Tia Juana and a score of the best detectives employed on the case are now searching for him.

Most Promising Clue.

The discovery of the initialed and laundry-marked nightie and its identification by Peavey is now considered the most promising clue, following the questioning of George Milo, actor and former vaudeville strong man, and Henri Reinique, cameraman. Milo was taken to headquarters and questioned, with Reinique, and later released, but not before ne was asked to re-enact the exit of the murderer from the Taylor home, as described by Mrs. Douglas MacLean.

It was also declared by Captain Adams that Edward F. Sands, the missing former secretary-valet of Taylor, would "either have to be charged with the murder or eliminated from the case."

neer. "And this business of paying the railroads. If we've got to pay the railroads anything, let's pay them, and not somebody from Kansas City."

"Dealing with the railroads is one of our biggest problems," spoke up Councilman Olson.

"You don't need an engineer to do that, you need a politician," shot back Mr. Sims.

Alderman Harry Goodhart closed the debate with vigorous remarks, in onection with the viaduct, and said he was at a loss to see how council could conscientiously vote to put the Kansas City firm in charge of the viaduct when it had permitted its agents to let the Florida bridge fail. Most Promising Clue.

Another mystery in the case is the disappearance of the letters of Mabel Normand, the comedienne, that she had written to Taylor, and which she declares he must have had with his other letters from famous women

"Just Josh Letters."

"They were just josh lefters, in which I called him 'Baby,' " said Miss Normand. "They were nothing I am ashamed of, and I would gladly have them published if they can be found." Others letters in the house were not disturbed.

The further the investigation of the crime goes, the more positive the po-ment. The leaders of the industry icel that the movie business is getting a distinct black eye as the sensational details come out. It is their hope that it can be determined that Taylor was murdered for money, or by a burglar, and no money is being spared to accomplish this aim.

Working along this line, Private Detective Monda discovered that the murdered director had drawn $2,000 in currency from his bank on the day he was murdered. It is stated that this sum may have been used to pay a blackmailer's tribute. Cancelled checks were on the table pefore which he had been sitting when he was shot and killed. (At the Lyric.)
Fred V. Bowers and a company of six in a whiriwind revue feature the opening program of the week at B. F. Keith's Lyric theater. Mr.

Henry Peavey, the servant, declared in an interview during the day he was certain that his murdered employer and Mabel Normand were to have been married.

"Mr. Taylor was in dove with Miss Normand," he said. "I don't think she was so much in love with him, though. She acted sometimes like she was tired of him. One night almost a month before Mr. Taylor was killed, Miss Normand was at the house for dinner. After dinner she stopped me when I went through the front of the apartment and told me she was going to marry Mr. Taylor. He was there, and he didn't say a word. She asked me if I would work for them.

"Mr. Taylor wrote a letter to Miss Normand every day, and had his chauffeur take them to her. She didn't come to our house often, but she would be there for dinner once in a while.

"Only One." the opening program of the week at B. F. Keith's Lyric theater. Mr. Bowers sings several popular songs, a trio of pretty girls pose and dance, an 'accomplished eccentric dancer' provides novelty, and the settings and music are all that could be desired.

Horace Wright and Rene Deitrich, billed as "The Somewhat Different Singers," successfully prove the justice of their claim to the title, and win a big hand. Instead of striving for jazz and contortionist effects, they go in for real, old-fashloned harmony, and the audience shows its approval of a sensibly quiet and really musical number in no uncertain way.

"The $10,000 Ankle," offered by Will H. Armstrong and company, is featured by the appearance of a decidedly pretty girl and some refreshing chatter, and the Nifty Trio open the program with a slapdash act that was well received. Chong and Rosie Moey, Jap performers, are excellent in American songs and dances.

News and feature pictures are added attractions.

"Once she asked me what other girls came to take dinner with Mr. Taylor.

"I told her she was the only one.

"He has you well trained," she said and she laughed."

Meanwhile, Mrs. Ada Deane-Tanner, who lives at Monrovia, Cal., was denying that she is the mysterious divorced wife of the murdered maa.

"I am William's sister-in-law." she said. "I married his brother, Deumis. I divorced my husband in Los An-"He rose we want of the laughs. The lauguage, seemed to make a hit with Monday night's audience and their songs with girst hard songs with girst half of the week. The girl members of the company possess charm and beauty and gracefully present their toe and fancy dances. The act is unusually well staged and costumed. "Monte and Lyons," as two Italian musicians, get the largest share of the laughs. Their comedy, created by the mis-use of the English language, seemed to make a hit with Monday night's audience and their songs with guitar accompaniment brought them several encores. "Honeymoon Inn." is just a lot of said. "I married his brother, Dennis.
I divorced my husband in Los Angeles six years ago for nonsupport."
She said she knew nothing about William Desmond Taylor, the name the director took when he abandoned his own, William Cunningham Deane-

TO KIRKWOOD CLERK

"I was married to Dennis in 1997, and have two daughters, Muriel, 14, and Alice, 7," she added.

"Honeymoon Inn," is just a lot of nonsense thrown together, into a musical skit. It is full of funny sayings and humorous situations in which a young lady with an abundance of flesh, figures prominently. Fred's Pigs, which opens the show, introduces five pigs of various sizes in many clever tricks. The act closes with a toboggan slide stunt, which the pigs seem to enjoy fully as much as the audience. Curry and Graham are very good in Scotch and Irish songs and heading the screen program is Shirley Mason in an interesting picture entitled "Jackie." COUNCIL REJECTS KANSAS CITY FIRM

He criticised the bond commission's the criticised the bond commission's investigation of the accident, stating that its members went into the matter by simply calling the senior member of the firm under charges before them and accepting his defensive statement.

Councilman Nutting asked unanimous consent of the council to hear from March 35 or who has sizen the Position of Mayor. "I would be disposed to take this opposition to Mr. Harrington on this bridge in Florida seriously," stated the mayor, "provided this opposition had begun after the structure fell. But that was only an incident. This op-position had begun before. I would have been glad to have favored a local man if we had had such a man who is a bridge specialist. But we haven't got such a man." Mr. Key said that Mr. Harrington was more than merely a consulting engineer. He said he was to draw all the plans for the viaduct, a job within itself worth $15,000, and asserted that with the assistance of Mr. Harring-ton a few days ago he got one of the railroads to withdraw claims against the city on account of the viaduct's erection amounting to several thou-sand dollars. He further declared that Mr. Harrington had submitted the only practical, feasible plan for the structure. Following the mayor's speech Councilman Sims addressed a question to Councilman Olson, chairman of the for the viaduct are still to be drawn. stating that he understood City Engineer C. F. Kauffman had prepared drawings for the bridge.

"We will use Mr. Kauffman's plans as far as he has gone," replied Mr. Olson.

"How far has he gone?" Mr. Sims asked. "I don't know," answered Council-

Would Get Better Bridge.

Councilman Murphy joined in the debate setting forth the opinion that the very fact that the Florida bridge fell would make the firm more careful on the Atlanta project and a better bridge would be the consequence than if the Florida mishap had not oc-

The opposite view was taken by Alderman Carpenter, and he was backed up by Alderman Ragsdale, who declared that without question the concern itself was at fauls in the Palm Ragsh collarse. Beach collapse.

"If your neighbor's house had fallen down, you would not go out and get the contractor who put it up to build you one, would you? We've got the best lawyers in the country here. We've got the best doctors; and if we haven't and every entry the property we're in haven't got expert engineers we're in a bad fix." Sims Takes Floor.

Councilman Sims took the floor again and stated that whoever handles the viaduct will largely follow plans already drawn by the city engineer. "And this business of paying the railroads. If we've got to pay the railroads anything, let's pay them, and not somebody from Kansas City."

"Dealing with the railroads is one of our biggest problems," spoke up Councilman Olson.

"You don't need an engineer to do that, you need a politician," shot back Mr. Sims.

Alderman Harry Goodhart closed

Fight on Market. Debate on the public market measure was confined to the alermanic board meeting. Alderman Carpenter, leading foe of the project, attacked the proposed appropriation as "wasteful expenditure," and he scored the mayor and "a little group of ladies," whom he charged with having kept the market question from being submitted to the people. He gave notice that he would keep on fighting the project, and, confirming his promise, held up the resolution by a motion to reconsider it.

The greatest story of love that the screen has ever known. Of an all-consuming devotion that triumphs over prison, age and death. A picture that makes you feel you've seen a thing of glorious beauty. Nothing else these noted stars have ever done can touch it!

(At the Metropolitan.)

It was a festive day at the Metropolitan yesterday. And for excellent reason. Viola Dana, daintiest and most bewitching comedienne of the silversheet, appeared in person. A diminutive vision of loveliness she was, with a manner at once so charming and so engaging, so challenging and so disarming that in less than twenty seconds she had taken the whole audience to her heart.

taken the whole audience to her heart.

The audiences that packed the Metropolitan for every appearance went away delighted with the acquaintance of the popular little comedienne who had danced across the silversheet a thousand times for their pleasure.

"The Fourteenth Lover," Viola Dana's most recent contribution to the screen, and a thing as joyous and intriguing as her personality could make it, was the feature picture sharing honors with the star herself.

Miss Dana will remain at the Metropolitan Tuesday, appearing twice in the afternoon at 3:15 and 5:00 and at night at 8:30 and 10:15 ociock.

Washington, February 6 .- President Harding informed republican congressional leaders today that whatever soldiers' bonus bill was enacted should carry with it a provision for raising the revenue to finance the bonus. Various means of obtaining the money were discussed, but it was said that no conclusions were reached.

reached.

It was aggeed at a white house conference lasting more than an hour and a half that the problem of finances should be attacked jointly by majority members of the house ways and means committee and the senate finance committee. What wer agreement is reached, it was stated, would be submitted to the president with a view to an accord between the executive and legislative branches before the bill is submitted to the house.

Chairman Fordney, of the house committee, and McCumber, of the senate committee, said the intercom-Speech by Foote.

"I shall work with the end in view," said Mr. Foote, "of making the year 1922 the greatest year the city of Atlanta has ever had, and I believe my ambition will be realized if I have the co-operation of the members of the chamber and the bodies serving under its jurisdiction. I es serving under its jurisdiction. have every reason to believe that I will have this co-operation.
"Let the Atlanta spirit which has made this city famous prevail during made this city famous prevail during the present year, and we will overcome all obstacles and before the beginning of another year will have made the greatest progress of any single year. Let ue all pull together for Atlanta."

Mr. Foote closed with an appeal for conversion from every sitten of for co-operation from every citizen of Other officers of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce were then introduced to the gathering. B. S. Barker, sec-retary of the body for 1922, was called on to speak. Said Mr. Barker:

Barker Makes Address. "The only way to keep Atlanta going ahead by leaps and bounds is for every man and woman in the city to volunteer their services through the medium of the chamber of commerce. When I see the wonderful personnel of our organization I realize the opportunities that lie before us. An effective chamber of commerce requires mental energy of the highest type which I recognize in our directors and members. All honor to these unselfish, well-qualified business men. WHEN you talk about saving money these days—that's the language that counts. Everybody wants to economize-make the dollar go just as far as it will. I knew when I put on a REAL MONEY-SAVING SALE that I was going to have the crowds—but I hardly expected such a jam as I have had in my store since last Wednesday, when I opened up this sixteen-day sale. I hate to lock customers out of my house. Wish I had room for all of you to get in and get waited on at the same time. Had to lock 'em out every day last week. But it's this small store that enables me to offer these big bargains. In selecting clothes, buyers want a little time to select, of course. This they hardly have had. And while we still have good crowds I fee, that we an give you a little more time and a little better service on this line of goods. I still have many fin selections left. If you'll just come in, you'll surely buy--'cause the pri es are so low you can't There's Remarkable Values Here in Suits and
